7                   UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8                   WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9                   AT TACOMA

10                   TAMMY JOHNSON and VANESSA
11                   DETTWILER, individually and on behalf of all 12                   others similarly situated,

13                   Plaintiffs,

14                   v.
15                   TRACTOR SUPPLY COMPANY, a Delaware
16                   Corporation,

17                   Defendant.

18                   NO.

19                   CLASS AND COLLECTIVE ACTION
20                   COMPLAINT
21                   JURY DEMAND

22                   Plaintiffs Tammy Johnson and Vanessa Dettwiler, by their undersigned attorneys, for this 23                   class action complaint against Defendant Tractor Supply Company (“Defendant”), allege as 24                   follows:

25                   I. INTRODUCTION

26                   1.1     Nature of Action. Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and all 27                   similarly situated employees against Defendant for engaging in a systematic scheme of wage and 28                   hour violations. The scheme involves systemic miscalculation of overtime and failure to 29                   affirmatively provide meal and rest breaks. Plaintiffs bring their claims as a class action under 30

1 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure (“FRCP”) 23 on behalf of a Washington state class, and as a
 2 nationwide collective action under the Fair Labor Standards Act (“FLSA”), 29 U.S.C. §216(b).

3 II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

4       2.1     Defendant is within the jurisdiction of this Court. This Court has jurisdiction of 5 Plaintiffs’ FLSA claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 because these claims arise under federal law, 29
 6 U.S.C. §§ 201-219. This Court also has supplemental jurisdiction over the Washington state law
 7 claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1337(a) because these claims are so related to the federal claims
 8 that they form part of the same case or controversy under Article III of the United States
 9 Constitution.

10       2.2     Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1331(a)(1) because 11 Defendant does sufficient business in this District to subject it to personal jurisdiction herein and 12 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331(b)(2) because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving 13 rise to the claims occurred in this District.

14 III. PARTIES

15       3.1     Plaintiff Tammy Johnson is a citizen of Washington State. Defendant hired her 16 as a non-exempt Assistant Manager in 2009. During the three years prior to filing this complaint,
 17 Plaintiff Johnson worked as both an exempt Acting Manager, as well as a non-exempt Assistant 18 Manager. When she worked as a non-exempt Assistant Manager during the last three years, 19 Plaintiff Johnson regularly worked pay periods in which she both worked overtime and earned a 20 non-discretionary bonus, yet Defendant failed to pay her at the proper overtime rate by excluding 21 the non-discretionary bonus from the regular rate of pay. Defendant also failed to affirmatively
 22 provide Plaintiff Johnson with thirty-minute meal breaks when she worked as a non-exempt
 23 Assistant Manager during the last three years. Moreover, Defendant failed to affirmatively
 24

1 provide her with paid ten-minute rest breaks for every four hours of work and regularly required
2 her to work more than three consecutive hours without a rest break.

3       3.2 Plaintiff Vanessa Dettwiler is a citizen of the state of Washington. Defendant
4 hired her as a non-exempt receiver at Defendant's Spanaway location on or around April 6, 2012.
5 Plaintiff Dettwiler began working at Defendant's Tacoma location on or around March 18, 2015.
6 Plaintiff Dettwiler regularly worked pay periods in which she both worked overtime and earned
7 a non-discretionary bonus. Because Defendant failed to include the non-discretionary bonus in 8 the regular rate of pay for purposes of paying overtime, however, Defendant failed to pay all
9 overtime to Plaintiff Dettwiler. Defendant also failed to affirmatively provide Plaintiff Dettwiler
10 with thirty-minute meal breaks. Moreover, Defendant failed to affirmatively provide her with 11 paid ten-minute rest breaks for every four hours of work and regularly required her to work more 12 than three consecutive hours without a rest break.

13       3.3. Defendant Tractor Supply Company ("TSC" or "Defendant") is a Delaware 14 corporation with its headquarters in Tennessee. TSC has employed thousands of employees in 15 the United States and hundreds of employees in Washington, including Plaintiffs and proposed 16 Class members. It operates over 1,600 stores in 49 states. TSC conducts business, including 17 employing scores of employees, in the Western District of Washington.

18                  IV. COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

19       4.1 Pursuant to 29 U.S.C. §216(b), Plaintiffs bring this case as a collective action on 20 behalf of all employees of Defendant in the United States who are similarly situated, i.e., all 21 employees who have worked for Defendant in the United States in a position classified by 22 Defendant as non-exempt and both 1) worked over 40 hours per week in at least one week, and 23 2) earned a non-discretionary bonus during at least one pay period between December 12, 2014
24

1 through the conclusion of this action (the “FLSA Period”). These employees shall be referred to 2 as the “FLSA Class.”

3       4.2      The named Plaintiffs are similarly situated to the members of the proposed Class
4 because they were employed by Defendant in non-exempt store-based positions, they worked 5 overtime and earned non-discretionary bonuses based on the profitability of their store, and they 6 were systematically denied full compensation for all overtime hours worked.

V. CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

8       5.1     Class Definition. Pursuant to FRCP 23, Plaintiffs also bring this case as a class 9 action against Defendant on behalf of an opt-out Washington Class (“the Washington Class” or 10 “the Class”) defined as follows:

11 All individuals who have worked in one of Defendant's stores in Washington in 12 a position Defendant classified as non-exempt at any time between December 12, 2014 and the date of final disposition of this action.

13       5.2     Numerosity. Plaintiffs believe there are hundreds of current or former employees
14 of Defendant in the Washington Class. The members of the Class are so numerous that joinder
15 of all members is impracticable. Moreover, the disposition of the claims of the Class in a single 16 action will provide substantial benefits to all parties and the Court.

17        5.3     Commonality. There are numerous questions of law and fact common to 18 Plaintiff and Washington Class members. These questions include, but are not limited to, the 19 following:

a. Whether Defendant has engaged in a common course of failing to properly calculate overtime and compensate Class members for all overtime hours worked;

b. Whether Defendant has engaged in a common course of failing to provide Class members with a ten-minute rest break for every four hours of work;

- 1                   c.        Whether Defendant has engaged in a common course of requiring Class
- 2       members to work more than three consecutive hours without a rest break;
- 3                   d.        Whether Defendant has engaged in a common course of failing to pay
- 4       Class members an additional ten minutes of compensation for each rest break the Class members
- 5       miss;
- 6                   e.        Whether Defendant has engaged in a common course of failing to provide
- 7       Class members with an uninterrupted, thirty-minute meal break for every five hours of work;
- 8                   f.        Whether Defendant has violated RCW 49.46.130;
- 9                   g.        Whether Defendant has violated RCW 49.46.090;
- 10          h.        Whether Defendant has violated RCW 49.52.050;
- 11          i.        Whether Defendant has violated RCW 49.12.020;
- 12          j.        Whether Defendant has violated WAC 296-126-092;
- 13          k.        Whether Defendant has violated WAC 296-128-550; and
- 14          l.        The nature and extent of class-wide injury and the measure of
- 15       compensation for such injury.

16                5.4     Typicality. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the Washington Class.
17       Plaintiffs work for Defendant as non-exempt employees and thus are members of the Class.
18       Plaintiffs' claims, like the claims of the Class, arise out of the same common course of conduct 19       by Defendant and are based on the same legal and remedial theories.

20                5.5     Adequacy. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the 21       Washington Class. Plaintiffs have retained competent and capable attorneys who have 22       significant experience in complex employment law litigation and class action litigation.
23       Plaintiffs and their counsel are committed to prosecuting this action vigorously on behalf of the 24

1 Class and have the financial resources to do so. Neither Plaintiffs nor their counsel have interests
 2 that are contrary to or that conflict with those of the Class.

3       5.6     Predominance. Defendant has engaged in a common course of wage and hour
 4 abuse toward Plaintiffs and members of the Washington Class. The common issues arising from 5 this conduct that affect Plaintiffs and members of the Class predominate over any individual
 6 issues. Adjudication of these common issues in a single action has important and desirable
 7 advantages of judicial economy.

8       5.7     Superiority. Plaintiffs and Class members have suffered and will continue to 9 suffer harm and damages as a result of Defendant's unlawful and wrongful conduct. Absent a
 10 class action, however, most Class members likely would find the cost of litigating their claims
 11 prohibitive. Class treatment is superior to multiple individual suits or piecemeal litigation
 12 because it conserves judicial resources, promotes consistency and efficiency of adjudication, 13 provides a forum for small claimants, and deters illegal activities. There will be no significant 14 difficulty in the management of this case as a class action. The Class members are readily 15 identifiable from Defendant's records.

16                   VI. SUMMARY OF FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

17       6.1     Common Course of Conduct: Failure to Pay Proper Overtime Compensation.
 18 Defendant's common course of wage and hour abuse against Plaintiffs and Washington Class
 19 and FLSA Class members includes routinely failing to properly compensate for all overtime
 20 hours worked at the correct regular rate. Throughout the Washington Class period and FLSA
 21 period, Defendant employed thousands of store-based employees in over 1,600 locations in the 22 United States, at least 18 of which are in Washington.

23       6.1.1    Defendant has regularly paid a non-discretionary store sales bonus based 24 on monthly store sales.

1           6.1.2 Plaintiffs' FLSA and Washington Class overtime claims are based on 2 Defendant's failure to include the non-discretionary, regularly paid, store sale bonuses in 3 Plaintiffs' regular rate of pay when calculating overtime. When paying overtime to Plaintiffs
4 and other non-exempt store-based employees, Defendant incorrectly paid these employees
5 at one-and-one-half times their hourly rate, instead of using the higher regular rate of pay
6 that includes the non-discretionary bonuses. This resulted in Defendant withholding 7 overtime pay from their non-exempt store-based employees, including Plaintiffs, thus 8 systematically depriving Plaintiffs and the FLSA and Washington Classes of proper overtime 9 compensation.

10           6.2     Common Course of Conduct Against Class: Failure to Provide Meal Breaks.

11           Defendant has engaged in, and continue to engage in, a common course of failing to provide their 12 hourly paid employees in Washington with an uninterrupted, thirty-minute meal break for every 13 five hours of work and requiring or permitting their hourly paid employees to work more than 14 five consecutive hours without a meal break.

15           6.2.1 Plaintiffs and Class members regularly are unable to take the full, thirty-16 minute meal breaks to which they are entitled because of how busy Defendant's stores are.

17           6.2.2 Plaintiffs and Class members often eat only while on-the-go to ensure they 18 can complete all their necessary work.

19           6.2.3 Defendant has had actual or constructive knowledge of the fact that hourly
20 paid employees in Washington do not receive uninterrupted, thirty-minute meal breaks for every 21 five hours of work and are required or permitted to work more than five consecutive hours 22 without a meal break.

1       6.3     Common Course of Conduct: Failure to Provide Proper Rest Breaks. Defendant
2 has engaged in, and continues to engage in, a common course of failing to provide paid rest
3 breaks to their hourly paid employees in Washington.

4              6.3.1. Defendant does not provide hourly paid employees ten-minute rest breaks
5 for every four hours of work; it requires hourly paid employees to work more than three 6 consecutive hours without a rest break; and it does not provide ten minutes of additional pay for 7 each rest break employees miss.

8              6.3.2    Each time an employee misses a rest break, Defendant receives the benefit 9 of 10 minutes of work without paying for the hours worked.

10             6.3.3    Defendant's hourly paid employees in Washington do not have time to 11 take rest breaks because of the volume of their work, and Defendant has no system in place to 12 relieve employees during busy periods in order for the employees to take rest breaks.

13             6.3.4    Defendant has had actual or constructive knowledge of the fact that hourly
14 paid employees do not receive ten-minute rest breaks for every four hours of work, must work 15 more than three consecutive hours without a rest break, and do not receive ten minutes of 16 additional pay for each rest break they miss.

10.1 Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference each and every allegation set forth
